CORE-Center at Oregon for Research in Education
Behavioral Research and Teaching (BRT) unit
.49 FTE 2015-2016 Academic Year (Fall, Winter, Spring)
Title: Assistant Research Data Analyzer and Report Writer

Behavioral Research and Teaching (BRT) in the College of Education assists schools and districts throughout the country in implementing effective educational reforms using student performance and progress to improve learning. BRT is seeking an applicant for a Graduate Research Assistant position to assist in analyzing data and writing reports of current studies within a time-sensitive research environment. FTE for the position is up to .49 for the 2015-2016 academic year (Fall, Winter, and Spring terms).

Eligibility:
Doctoral students in the College of Education (COE) are eligible to apply. Preference will be given to applicants with demonstrated ability to prepare and analyze data sets for the study of a computerized oral reading evaluation (CORE), and a theoretical/research interest in reading. Responsibilities include:

1. Combine and prepare data from student and teacher files, and conduct preliminary analyses.
2. Data collection (and coordination) in schools.
3. Conduct statistical analyses on data sets, including descriptive statistics, structural and measurement models, multi-level models, and item response theory.
4. Write technical reports that include compilations of tabular data using the guidelines of the American Psychological Association; write briefs of findings for distribution among professional organizations; prepare conference proceedings for presentation, participate with a team of researchers to prepare manuscripts for submission to peer-reviewed journals.

Experience with SPSS, R, Mplus, or HLM is preferred. Experience with MySQL is desirable.
